

CONGRESS:

Your constituents want to know where you stand on our nation's health. Tell them today at www.YourCongressYourHealth.org.

Which comes closest to your view on funding for NIH?

- The U.S. must increase investment in NIH to ensure our future health and economic security.
- Current U.S. funding for medical and health research is sufficient and other budget items are higher priorities now.
- Funding for NIH is not a priority.

Do you think it is the responsibility of the federal government to make sure all Americans have health care coverage or not?

Opinion polls show health care and related issues as the public's top domestic concern. Because action by Congress influences so many aspects of Americans' health, your constituents need to know where you stand.

Your Congress–Your Health is a new initiative to advance dialogue between Congress and the public about health and research.

PARADE magazine introduced Your Congress-Your Health to its 74 million readers in March. The story received the highest number of reader comments of any PARADE article to date. This feedback shaped our questionnaire sent to all members of Congress this week.

Help us educate the public—including the 125 million Americans represented by Research!America. Your responses will be posted online beginning in mid-June.
