

2013 REQUEST FOR APPLICATIONS

AACN Leadership for Academic Nursing Program

July 28 – August 1, 2013

Antlers Hilton Colorado Springs

Colorado Springs, CO

PURPOSE

The purpose of the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN) Leadership for Academic Nursing Program (LANP) is to enhance the executive leadership skills of:

- Individuals in mid to upper-level faculty positions who have experience in academic administration roles and who aspire to lead the nursing academic unit.
- Individuals serving as chief academic administrators of nursing schools offering baccalaureate or graduate degrees who are new to the role (e.g., within three years).

This fellowship is designed for those who have experience in academic administration and who aspire to more senior administrative or executive positions within the nursing academic unit. It is not intended to prepare junior faculty for positions of higher responsibility.

The year-long program provides participants with a focused assessment experience, a range of content and exercises related to successful executive leadership, and the opportunity to establish a peer network that fosters long term partnerships and shares growth and development.

BACKGROUND

AACN, comprised of over 720 institutional members, is the national voice for baccalaureate and graduate nursing education. The health and the stability of baccalaureate and graduate nursing programs are directly related to the quality of the educational experience of the nursing student and to the credibility of the graduate's skills and competencies. Central to these goals is the availability of a cadre of academic nursing professionals equipped with the leadership skills to assure an excellent educational experience and graduates for the professional nursing workforce.

The development of high level leadership skills in faculty and administrators in schools of nursing is vital to the success of the baccalaureate and graduate nursing enterprise given the complex challenges being faced by these organizations. Individuals leading an academic nursing organization are challenged by an array of complex issues including:

- Financial constraints faced by higher education
- Continued declines in interest in a nursing career
- The need to develop effective partnerships with the practice environment to assure the development of training opportunities and appropriately educated professional nurses

- The need for strategies to recruit diverse student populations to the field
- The need to partner with multiple players to meet these challenges.

Moreover, there is growing awareness that the aging of the nursing profession also is reflected in the demographics of those individuals who are administering academic nursing programs. Of particular concern is the fact that 74% of member deans/directors are over the age of 55 and are increasingly retirement-eligible. According to 2012 AACN data, only 2.8% of member deans/directors are under the age of forty-five. In addition, only 8.3% of these individuals are members of an underrepresented racial or ethnic minority and 4.8% are male. LANP inspires applicants to change the demographics of nursing academic leadership.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

LANP includes an intensive 5-day seminar, focused assessment activities, facilitation of a mentorship experience, opportunities for follow-up with seminar faculty, and sharing of ideas and resources among fellows. The program focuses on key leadership competencies needed in complex nursing education and health care environments. LANP is devoted to general executive leader development. Note that fiscal and academic issues, while discussed and used as examples, are not the primary focus. Previous Fellows have evaluated the content very highly, calling it “life changing”. Seminar topics include the following:

Introduction of the key vision and framework for a strategic intervention on leadership:

- Theories of leadership
- Relating theory to strategic actions
- Evidence for validation
- Value of a full range assessment and intervention
- Review and evaluation of the strategic assessment

From the Broad to the Specific:

- Strategic assessment of the individual – possibilities for growth and change
- Peer learning and feedback mechanisms
- Case studies for change
- Creating personal models for strategic growth and change

Targeted Cultural Change:

- Linking the individual’s assessment to the organizational culture
- Developing plans for intervention
- Establishing long term networks
- Change and conflict
- Evaluation and redesign

The purpose of the mentorship portion of the program is the development of a long term partnership that will enhance the fellow's leadership capabilities through shared growth and development. The ideal mentor is one that meets the fellow's ideological perspective and professional development needs. Mentors may be deans or other senior academic leaders. Selected fellows will be expected to identify an individual who will be able to serve as their mentor. More information on the mentoring relationship will be discussed during the seminar.
